In this section, our sommeliers have selected some of their favorite wines to accompany Fabio's food. These producers often escape the notice of guests due to geography, rarity, or lack of fame. One thing they all have in common, however, is they all complement the different flavors here very well. We hope you enjoy exploring them as much as we do. This part of the list will be changing frequently so check back often!

DRY SHERRIES FOR SAVORY FOOD

Sherries range from the briny, tangy, bright finos and manzanillas that see barely any oxidation at all, to the Olorosos and Amontillados that blossom thanks to oxidation, to the unctuous, cloying Pedro Ximenez dessert styles. In this section, we wanted to highlight some of the drier styles that pair as well with our food as do more conventional still wines. We hope you love them as much as we do!

Coravin and Large Format By the Glass

On this page, we are highlighting some extraordinary projects we would love to offer by the glass, but whether for price or rarity, we think better of it. Thanks to the Coravin system, we can offer these rare delights without ever uncorking the bottles. And in the darkened corner, one large format bottle plucked from our cellars that we will offer by the glass till its gone. All these selections will change often, so check back!

Wonderful Women Winemakers

The impact of women on the world of wine is both powerful and permeating. In this section we will feature the extraordinary and colorful produce of women in wine. In every province and style the world offers, the women are always top performers. We wanted to put some of them front and center. The women featured below are not the only winemakers we carry on our list. These are some seasonal highlights and they will change frequently!

VEGA-SICILIA

Founded in 1864, Vega-Sicilia was one of the first Spanish producers to employ Bordelaise varieties in an attempt to overmatch their French brethren at places like Latour and Lafite-Rothschild. They have succeeded utterly. Using some of the oldest Tempranillo and Cabernet Sauvignon vines in Spain, they produce some of the most elegant wines in the world year after year.
